Dairy Compromise Tied to Change in PIK to Aid Cotton Growers Could Be Passed Without House Hearings on It

The nation's beef and pork producers, still smarting from the Senate vote signed; 30 days would be needed for which passed the new dairy compromise bill back to the House for action, were angered further last week when they learned that the dairy legislation had been tied to a House bill making the PIK program more equitable for cotton growers was a maneuver which could anable Congress to pass the legislation without further hearings in the House.

Cattlemen and swine producers fear that the bill as it stands will result in a flood of up to one million cull dairy cows hitting that market in short order and which will further depress red meat prices, it is possible for the House to simply approve the compromise and thus rush it to the White House.

Red meat producers were reported the program called Operation DIAL-HAY

Red meat producers were reported this week to be contacting House members in an effort to get some dalay and hearings in which major changes may still be made to svert the crisis the flood or cow heef would create and hearings in which major changes may still be made to svart the crisis the flood or cow beef would create.

The bill would have to be manimously approved by the House in that case. That may not be likely. With one objection, the House would then have to said it through for cammittee action. That extra work slone is not enough to prevent the bill from getting to the White House in time to be implemented Jan. 1, but it will slow it down. If the bill is delayed too much, it would mean the dates for implementation would have to be chenged, sources said.

As it stands now, the bill would cut that aupport price of milk by 50 cents per hundredweight from the current $18.10 - the price before the assessmente are extracted — to $12.60. That cut would begin on the first day of the first month following enactment of the bill and begin on the first day of the first month following enactment of the bill and begin on the first day of the first month following enactment of the bill and begin on the first day of the first month following enactment of the bill and begin on the first day of the first month following enactment of the bill and begin on the first day of the first month following enactment of the bill and begin on the first day of the first month following enactment of the bill and begin on the first day of the first month following enactment of the bill and begin on the first day of the first month following enactment of the bill and begin on the first day of the first month following enactment of the bill and begin on the first day of the first month following enactment of the bill and begin on the first day of the first month following enactment of the bill and transportation strangements, but ransports in purchase of dairy productis are expected to top 5 billion pounds (on a yearly basis). One more 50-cent drop could be put into the first month of the bill and the first month of the first month of up another 50 cents.

But what is of greatest interest to delry producers is when the 15-mooth paid diversion feature of the bill would begin, Under this provision, dairymen could sign contracts with the U.S. Department of Agriculture to trim production from 5-30%. In exchange, the milk producers would be paid $10 for each hundredweight not marketed.

USDA officials are certain that any such portion would require the creation such portion would require the creation of new regulations which would have to be published in the Federal Register. Because of that, the beginning of the program would have to be delayed at

Name of the Sales of the Sales

A "little ear" on feeder calves has become an important marketing factor in recent years.

Some feeders are demanding that their order buyers select calves with some Brahman in their genetic make-up.

We think one of the best tools available to put a "little ear" on your feeder caives is to turn out a Beefmaster bull.

Contact the N.B.A. for a list of breeders who have breeding age Beefmastar bulls for sale.
